

Davenport Native Joins Braley's Iowa Staff

Rep. Braley announced today that Katie Kluever will serve as a veterans caseworker in Braley's Davenport office.

Washington, DC - Davenport native Katie Kluever has joined the Iowa staff of Rep. Bruce Braley (D-Iowa). Kluever will work in Braley's Davenport office as a caseworker focusing on veterans issues.

Kluever was born in Davenport and graduated from Pleasant Valley High School in 2004. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology from Augustana College, and after graduation, Kluever worked as an enrollment advisor for Ashford University in Clinton, Iowa.

"Katie has a real commitment to helping people in need," Braley said. "I'm thrilled to add her energy and motivation to my team. As a caseworker, she will work extensively with veterans from all over eastern Iowa to navigate bureaucracy, cut through red tape, and get the benefits these men and women deserve. I'm proud to have another native Quad Citian working in my office to make this community a better place."
